Teams pitch their skills against other teams in a brand new competition to see who comes out on top! Fast-paced, interactive and revealing!

Your aim is to recover sunken treasure. Your target is a galleon, The Black Swan, sunk in 1694 off the Spanish coast. There's $50 million at stake so you won't be surprised to hear that other speculators - the other teams - are in the race so you must move fast.

First locate the wreck's position on the map, then the treasure's position on the wreck, then hire a boat and submersible for the recovery operation - and you've done it!

Sounds easy but there are a host of problems to overcome. Key to your success is the crucial data on 36 special cards. Collating and interpreting the data is vital - and best handled using the strengths of all members of the team. In fact your success depends entirely on your ability to work as a team. You know the theory of good teamwork, here's your chance to show you can put it into practice.

A powerful activity for learning key teamwork skills and for demonstrating the positive energy generated by high-performing teams.

Teams at Work

Trainer's Role

1. Introduce the activity.
2. Issue Team Briefs.
3. Allow teams to study the chart and locate the wreck. They must formulate a recovery plan.
4. Next, teams plan a route to the wreck and must request tasks to move across sea squares.
5. Using the strengths of different team members, teams choose those tasks they think they are good at.
6. Lead a Debrief to discuss the learning outcomes and key lessons.
7. Relate the lessons to the workplace.

Full guidance is provided in the Trainer's Notes.
